NEW PUMP HOUSE NEAR COMPLETION

At the meeting of the Daly City board of trustees last Monday evening, Mayor H. H. Smith was in the chair, and several matters of importance were attended to.

Trustee Moran reported that the new pump house is near completion, with the machinery for pumping the city water supply already in working order. The water department plans putting a four-inch main on Frankfort to give better service and fire protection to the new residents in that district.

A new street light was ordered installed on Rice street, 150 feet from Mission street.

The board received a petition signed by several residents, asking for a raise in salary of the poundmaster. This petition was laid over until the next meeting.

Trustee Bodien reported on the work of the committee looking after the proposed celebration of Independence day in 1927, and invited all to come to the meeting on Wednesday night.

A counter petition was presented to the board by residents in the neighborhood of Bellevue and Templeton avenues in protest to a recent petition for a butcher shop on that corner. The matter had been laid over from a previous meeting and was extensively discussed. As the protest petition bore many more signatures, and investigation during the two weeks had been unfavorable, the request was denied by a unanimous vote.

Trustee Sundermann reported that the new lights and books in the city library added much to one of our city's biggest assets.

After ordering the payment of a number of bills, the meeting was adjourned until Monday, September 13.

ST. MAXIMUS BAZAAR IS IN FULL SWING

The many weeks of preparation for the bazaar bore fruit in the grand opening Thursday evening at the Daly City Auditorium. Four booths, artistically decorated, are filled with many gifts and presentations to be made during the remaining nights of the carnival. There are many other side shows, with various attractions, to pass away the time. Dancing is a feature of each evening's entertainment. The children of the Sunday school present an attractive program. The affair will close with a dance Monday evening, August 30, and final distribution of awards.

NEW BUSINESS HOUSE OPENS IN DALY CITY

Saturday, August 26, will see the opening of the California Chain Store of San Francisco at Templeton avenue and Hanover street. This store will be a great asset to the district, as it is something new and up-to-date in every respect. The butcher department has been equipped with the very latest refrigerator, being built by the Yale Manufacturing Co., and installed by the Mowatt Refrigerator Co., of San Francisco. It will keep the meat fresh in the very warmest weather, and also fly-proof. The grocery department has also been well stocked with a full line of groceries, and by helping yourself prices can be greatly reduced. This store is complete in every way and deserves the patronage of the people of the district.

BUILDING PERMITS

City Clerk B. C. Ross reports the issuance of the following building permits:

H. K. Dempsey, 678 San Diego avenue, four rooms and garage; 682 San Diego avenue, four rooms and garage.

J. Van Heusden, 432 Vista Grande avenue, five rooms and garage; 444 Vista Grande avenue, five rooms and garage.

C. Van Haffen, 53 Shakespeare street, alterations.

OPTIONS ARE ORDERED FOR SAN FRANCISCO AIRPORT SITE

Establishment of San Francisco's airport moved appreciably nearer last Tuesday when the special airport committee of the supervisors instructed that options be obtained on several possible sites. The committee also determined to seek a charter amendment covering the airport.

All the proposed sites lie in San Mateo county, north of San Mateo. Joseph J. Phillips, right-of-way agent for the city, was instructed to obtain the options.

At the same time, a new proposal to sell the city 140 acres of land adjacent to the Leslie Salt Works, at San Mateo, was made by Lloyd Berendson. Berendson's letter said he was empowered to offer a tract 5,000 feet long and 1,270 feet wide, adjacent to railroad and highway facilities, for $1,000 an acre.

DALY CITY SCHOOL MAKES U.S. RECORD

So far, 75 per cent of the boys graduated by the Jefferson Union high school have entered college.

We challenge any community in the United States to show a similar record! Boston is not barred!

Any remarkable achievement of this character brings up the natural question: Why?

Heredity, experience, environment; these three influences shape all human ambition.

And a study of heredity in the case of these boys shows ambitious parents—every father being in his own business; proof of courage, endurance and industry above the average. In school experience, the eight years—two-thirds of their school life—in our elementary schools must have fired these young men with a zeal far out of the ordinary; a hunger and thirst beyond the average to lift themselves as high or higher than their parents and companions in culture and ability which comes from higher education, as well as the ability "for to see and admire" which added learning gives. And that desire can best be fathered and fostered in the earlier, impressionable years.

Environment, which includes associations, must receive the last and largest credit, because any horse can start in a race, but it takes a race horse to finish. And race horses are the result of training clear up to the minute the race starts.

To our high school faculty and their constant and consistent effort to "sell" the idea of higher education is due the great credit of having these young citizens true to the star of destiny which their parents and former teachers by precept and percept so constantly pointed out as the way to go.

Hats off to Daly City! Where other communities are proud of 20 per cent of their graduates entering college, we make nearly four times that record! Boston, Philadelphia and Los Angeles papers, please copy!

And while we are crowing about Daly City, Colma shows the remarkable record of 100 per cent of her boy graduates entering college!

GRACE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Eleven new scholars came to the Sunday school last Sabbath and we are hoping that more may come this Sabbath.

Twelve of the young people of the church came together at the Manse on Tuesday evening and formed plans for the organization of a Young Peoples' Society. Miss Katherine McKeown was made chairman of the evening and a splendid program was arranged for Sabbath evening, beginning at 7 o'clock. Miss McKeown, Mrs. Gatchell and Mr. Ernest Swan were appointed to lead the meeting. Miss Hester Blaylock, Miss Mildred Swan and Miss Dorothy Riddell were to arrange music for the meeting, and a splendid time is assured to those who come. Let us make it a rousing service.

The pastor will speak next Sabbath evening on the theme, "Who Destroyed the Foundation? What Can We Build Without It?"

At the service last Sabbath evening Mrs. Hanson, of Palo Alto, sang a solo to the uplift of those present. At the Sabbath school hour, Mrs. Dressler, of Findlay, Ohio, sang a very beautiful song, "When They Ring the Golden Bells for You and Me."

Remember the double service for next Sabbath evening. Young Peoples' meeting at 7 and public worship at 8. Everybody invited and a welcome awaits you.

The ladies of the Guild will give a luncheon at the church on Tuesday of next week. This being election day, it will take the place of the luncheon which usually is held on the first Wednesday of each month. All are cordially invited to come and enjoy this luncheon for which the ladies of the Guild have made a reputation for themselves and the organization.

Chas. H. Gatchell, Minister; Phone Delaware 1544.

FOREST SERVICE OFFERS REWARD FOR FIREBUGS

A reward not exceeding $500 and not less than $100 is offered by the United States Forest Service for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person, in any court, on the charge of wilfully and maliciously setting on fire, or causing to be set on fire, any timber, underbrush, or grass fire upon lands of the United States within a national forest.

Seventy-two fires have been maliciously set by incendiaries this year in the national forests of California. Unless a real fire conscience is developed in our citizens, the forests of California are doomed. It is high time that public sentiment be thoroughly aroused against this vicious enemy who carries the firebrand into the forest with malice aforethought.

T. C. McGovern Good Man for Sheriff

T. C. MCGOVERN

As the campaign draws to a close it becomes more apparent that the people of San Mateo county are going to reward faithful service by electing Sheriff T. C. McGovern.

It has been conceded generally that McGovern has made a good sheriff and therefore deserves being returned to the office.

The sheriff is a San Mateo county boy. His parents were pioneers of the county and were well and favorably known on the coastside where they lived.

For a time there was some apprehension among McGovern's friends as to what the effect of his serious injuries would be. This apprehension has all passed away.

McGovern is at his home in Redwood City from the hospital. He is already able to be about some. He will be weakened for some time on account of the great loss of blood but there are no permanent injuries and the sheriff will be back at his work within two or three weeks.

During his absence in the hospital the deputies and friends of McGovern have redoubled their efforts in behalf of their faithful friend. The response of the public has been most gratifying to all McGovern's friends.

The campaign has been clean and dignified. No one has questioned the character or standing of either of the candidates. The campaign, therefore, resolves itself into one simply of qualification for the office.

McGovern worked as a deputy for some years. He has been sheriff now for some three years. He knows every detail of the office. He has been successful.

The friends of the only remaining opponent in the race have never questioned the official work of Sheriff McGovern.

The sheriff has made many important arrests during the last few years and has been most successful in uncovering crime. The attorneys generally have recommended the sheriff's office in the handling of the civil work. The grand juries have each year reported favorably on the conduct of the county jail.

There really is very little argument for any change in the sheriff's office. McGovern has lived in the county all his life. He has a beautiful family of a wife and two young boys who are looking forward hopefully and with constant assurance to his re-election.

Not one word has been said against any opponent. But one further comment can be made. The sheriff has an undersheriff and three deputies. The law makes provision for no more.

From practically every community in the county have come reports that certain persons are asking their friends to vote for a new sheriff in that such persons will be named under-sheriff or deputy. This, of course, cannot be. No sheriff can legally name more than one under-sheriff nor can he name more than three paid deputies.

It seems just a little unfortunate that persons in every community of the county seem to be claiming that they are to be under-sheriffs. It perhaps is unfortunate that more deputies cannot be named on account of the growing population of the county, but the number cannot be increased during the term of office, and the legislature doesn't meet until after the beginning of the new term. No additional provision can therefore be made which will effect the coming term.

However, with the present force, the sheriff has made a remarkable record and it seems apparent that the voters of the county are recognizing the wonderful indorsement of the sheriff's campaign.

BEATEN TO DEATH CAST INTO OCEAN

An investigation has been launched by peace officers of San Mateo county, led by deputies of Sheriff T. C. McGovern's office and Constable S. A. Landini to determine the cause of death of a man whose bruised and battered body was taken from the waves late Monday afternoon at Thornton beach near Colma by Constable Landini.

The body remained unidentified after more than a score of persons had viewed it at the offices of Deputy Coroner Luella Pepper at Daly City. The left arm was broken and the face and head were smeared with blood, with scalp wounds such as might have resulted from a severe beating about the head. Money and personal effects were missing from pockets in the clothing. The body had been in the water but a short time, authorities said, leading to the belief that the man may have been beaten to death and thrown into the surf some time Sunday.

The sole mark of identification consisted of the initials O. X. L. and the figure 1, a laundry mark on a collar. The body is described as 5 feet 4 inches in height, weighing 145 pounds, smooth shaven, brown hair and blue eyes, clad in a brown coat and brown trousers.

Landini said the body had been in the water three or four hours.

The spot where it was found is in an isolated stretch of coast. Those who made the find telephoned to Landini, but failed to give their names.

Constable Landini rushed to the scene of the gruesome find when motorists on the Skyline boulevard notified him that they had seen a body in the breakers. Because of the steep bank, Landini was forced to attach a line to the body and drag it out with a team of horses.

The man's arm had been broken and his face and head were covered with blood. Landini declared that while it was possible that the man leaped to his death from the cliff, the condition of the body indicated that he had been murdered.

NEWSPAPERS SUPPORTING C. C. YOUNG

The campaign for the Republican nomination for governor now rapidly approaching its election day climax has developed many surprises, but none perhaps has aroused a greater interest than the rapidly rising tide of newspaper support for Lieutenant Governor C. C. Young.

At the present time some 150 papers are supporting Mr. Young which is an increase of eighty since last April.

SLAYS GIRL AND ENDS OWN LIFE

Believed to have become demented through four years of brooding over the death of his only son, William Wallace, of San Jose, killed Miss Susie Ellis, a waitress in his restaurant, Sunday morning and later committed suicide on a street car crowded with church goers.

Wallace is said by Chief of Police J. N. Black to have been on his way to Oak Hill Cemetery with the intention of killing his wife, who was decorating the grave of their son at the time. Black believes that the man intended to slay his wife and himself upon the grave of their child.

The murder of the waitress was discovered about 9 o'clock Sunday morning by a patron of the restaurant at 393 South First street, known as "Jitney Bill's." Finding the place deserted, the customer walked through to the kitchen, where he found the body of Miss Ellis, shot through the head, lying in front of the range.

At almost the same moment Wallace shot himself on a street car en route to the cemetery.

J. L. Bakas, 112 Cherry avenue, saw the man take the pistol from his pocket and raise it to his head. He attempted to seize the gun, but was too late.

PLANS PROGRESS FOR CELEBRATION

The second meeting of the committee preparing for the celebration of Independence Day in Daly City on July 4, 1927, was held last Wednesday evening in the City Hall.

After some discussion, a motion prevailed to have the chairman appoint a planning committee, consisting of one delegate from each organization in Daly City. This committee will meet on Wednesday, September 22, in the City Hall, to make a rough draft of the entire program for the celebration.

A committee composed of P. Ross, H. Roth and V. Sevilly, was appointed to visit each organization and see that it elects its delegates before the next meeting, so that a larger attendance may be had than last Wednesday.

Discussion as to whether the celebration should be of one or three days duration was quite lively for some time.

TO THE PROPERTY OWNERS OF DALY CITY

Property owners of this city have requested the board of fire commissioners to look into the matter of fire insurance rates. Complaint is made that the rates are too high, especially upon business property. The contention of the property owners is that the city has made numerous improvements, all of which were approved by the board of underwriters and yet no material reduction of rates has been made.

The board of fire commissioners has at all times tried to do its utmost in having the rates reduced.

The property owners who hold such policies should co-operate with the board and ascertain from their agents if they are at the present time receiving the lowest possible rate, and if not, why.

The commissioners also wish to call to the attention of property owners, that a detail map of improvements such as paved streets, larger water main, more fire hydrants, etc., has been placed on file in the offices of the board of fire underwriters to which you may refer your agent.

Sometimes your agent is not familiar with conditions surrounding your property and the same rate maintains for all time. It is up to you owners to get active and have just what reductions you are entitled to.

With these suggestions from the board and some activity on the owners' part, we feel sure some relief is obtainable.

Board of Fire Commissioners,
By Committee:

G. R. AUGUSTIEN,
C. F. RODENBERGER.

AVIATOR HURT IN CRASH

Thor Polsson, San Francisco, veteran pilot and designer of air craft, was seriously injured at Redwood City Monday morning when a plane in which he was giving a demonstration, crashed to earth from a height of approximately 150 feet.

He suffered a broken nose, loss of a number of teeth, concussion of the brain, a broken arm and probable internal injuries, it was stated by physicians at Mills Memorial hospital, San Mateo, where the injured man was taken, following treatment at the Redwood City hospital, where he was taken immediately following the crash.

INCREASED REGISTRATION IN SCHOOLS OF COUNTY

A 10 to 20 per cent increase in registration for San Mateo county schools was being recorded Monday with the opening of grammar and high schools throughout the county and the San Mateo junior college.

Registration figures could not be given in exact totals. Partial figures however, indicated every school, with the exception of the smaller grammar schools in the mountain district will be crowded to capacity. The junior college was forced to deny entrance to nearly one-third of applicants and has a waiting list of about 75 students after accepting approximately 100.

LOCAL MASONS ENJOY OUTING AT SAWYER'S CAMP

The annual picnic and outing held by Crocker Lodge No. 454, F. & A. M., last Sunday at Sawyer's Camp, was one of the most successful events in the history of the local lodge. Masons and their wives and children met at "the top of the hill" at 9 o'clock, and from that point journeyed by automobile to the camp grounds, where the day was pleasantly spent in games and contests, eating and visiting. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the outing have come in for many warm words of praise, and all who attended are eagerly looking forward to the next picnic.

Working cooperatively, progressive groups of farmers in California, solve their irrigation problem.

The Nevada County Irrigation District recently voted $7,500,000 for bonds. They will collect and divert water through a P. G. & E. power plant at a cost of so much per acre foot to the power company, after which, the water undiminished will enter irrigation ditches and canals.

The South San Joaquin and Oakdale Districts, jointly, in a like arrangement, voted $2,200,000 for bonds.

In each case the price paid for water by the power company redeems bonds and interest without any financial burden to the farmer.

FRIENDS OF C. C. YOUNG RALLY TO HIS SUPPORT

What is without question the most impressive endorsement ever given a candidate for office in California has come to Lieutenant-Governor C. C. Young from his former associates and colleagues of the State Legislature.

All of them leaders in their counties, many of them of state-wide prominence, these members and former members of the State's legislative body, have combined in a written approval of Mr. Young that is based entirely on their personal knowledge of the man, and upon his record at Sacramento during the last eighteen years.

The endorsement is made "irrespective of partisan or political considerations," the solons state, and is based on "an intimate knowledge of Young as a man, legislator and presiding officer."

His long service and fitness is stressed, as well as his ability and character. "For these reasons" the endorsement concludes, "and because we consider him a man who ought to be continued in public service we unhesitatingly commend Lieutenant-Governor C. C. Young to the attention of California voters."

ANOTHER BOOST FOR MCGOVERN

August 12, 1926.

Mrs. T. McGovern,
Redwood City,
San Mateo Co., Calif.

Dear Mrs. McGovern:

Mrs. Heney and myself were deeply shocked and horrified when we heard of the tragic accident that so nearly ended the life of your beloved husband and our friend.

We are delighted to know that his ultimate recovery is assured, though it is sad to think he must endure weeks of pain and suffering before his broken body is mended. I have always had the highest admiration for your husband through the years I have known him, not only for his honesty and integrity, but also for the fearless courage he has shown in his discharge of public duties. We have too few men in public office who can combine charity with honesty and fearlessness, and I feel that the people of San Mateo county will return your husband to office by a tremendous majority, notwithstanding the fact he can no longer personally carry on his campaign for sheriff.

If there is anything I can do in any manner whatsoever for you personally, or to assist in your husband's campaign for re-election, you have only to command me.

With earnest wishes from both Mrs. Heney and myself for Tom's early recovery, I am,

Cordially and sincerely yours,
FRANCIS J. HENEY.

C. A. DIBBLE

The northern cities of the First Township of San Mateo county must realize that their welfare is indissolubly bound up with that of the southern end. For adequate protection of their mutual interests and progress, a standard law enforcement and official representation is necessary.

With Constable S. A. Landini on the north end, you are assured of ample law enforcement.

Now, with a view to officially represent the southern end and to afford it quicker and better law enforcement, Mr. C. A. Dibble, a resident and business man of the Broadway district of North Burlingame, seeks the position of Constable to represent the south end of the first township. Mr. Dibble's personal qualifications of integrity, sincerity and aggressiveness, and his record of business achievement in his own city, and his earnest desire to give a clean administering of the law in the first township, seriously deserve your attention. Mr. Dibble is endorsed by the Italian-American Club of South San Francisco and the Broadway Development Association of North Burlingame. The citizens of North Burlingame are heartily supporting him. You citizens of the northern cities, who have the interests of the whole township at heart, are urged to cast a vote for Mr. Dibble for Constable on Tuesday, August 31. —Adv.

Constable S. A. Landini has the widespread reputation of being one of the best officers in the state of California today. The residents of San Mateo county are anxious to retain him in office, that this district may continue to reign under law and order and be a clean, wholesome place for our families to live in.

This Saturday evening the State Theatre will present Conway Tearle in "The Dancer of Paris." There will be additional features and that popular serial, "Vanishing Millions."

Prone pedestrians also might be characterized as a bumper crop.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

30,000 LEGION MEN WILL GO TO FRANCE

The American Legion convention in France next year will be the most representative national convention ever held by the Legion, according to Bowman Elder, chairman of the France convention travel committee of the Legion.

"It is significant that the convention is to be held on the tenth anniversary of the entry of the United States into the World War," Mr. Elder said. One of the principal objects in holding the convention abroad is to enable the former doughboys to visit the American battlefields in France and to enable them to pay homage to the thousands of their former comrades who now lie buried in the soil of France.

"It will be a great pilgrimage, behind which there lies a high and sacred patriotic purpose, the resolve to rededicate the American Legion and its membership to the ideals of freedom and democracy, the same ideals for which those who are today buried in France died and which inspired the organization of the Legion ten years before."

Mr. Elder explained that though 30,000 veterans would be taken to France on the Legion pilgrimage, making the crossing in 24 luxurious ocean liners, this would probably be less than the number of those who actually wanted to go. In order to give everyone an equal chance, definite quotas were to be assigned to each state, based on membership of the Legion in any particular state during the year 1926.

"The Legion is further particularly anxious to make it possible for the men of moderate means who could probably never afford to go to France as a regular tourist to join the Legion expedition," Mr. Elder declared. He explained that on behalf of these men a campaign had been inaugurated by the France convention travel committee to obtain the co-operation of employers in granting extra vacation time in 1927. It will require at least four weeks to make the trip to France and back.

"Many Legionnaires who want to go to France feel that it is futile to save their money unless they can obtain the necessary extra vacation time," Mr. Elder declared. "We are therefore trying to assist them by bringing their problem to the attention of employers in all parts of the country."

"Wherever this has been done, we have received the heartiest co-operation. A number of large corporations have already issued bulletins in which they promise their employees who are ex-service men an opportunity to obtain at least four weeks vacation in 1927. Employers' associations in all sections have given it the stamp of their approval."

The cost of the trip will be within the reach of almost all veterans, Mr. Elder pointed out. The lowest inclusive rate which will provide transportation both ways on the Atlantic, hotel in Paris and trips to American cemeteries and American battlefields will be approximately $175. The entire trip, including all expenses can be easily made for as little as $300, he declared.

League of Nations Post Officially Chartered

The smallest post of the American Legion was officially chartered recently at Geneva, Switzerland, seat of the League of Nations, and will be known as League of Nations post. The post is composed of four members.

Each of the members of the post is permanently associated with the secretariat of the league.

At present there are just enough members to officer the post, including a sergeant-at-arms.

The post commander, Howard R. Huston of Minot, N. D., is the chief of the internal services of the league. He is known as "the man who died and came back." He was once officially listed as dead after having been seriously wounded at Chateau Thierry.

But he later staged a comeback, entered the St. Mihiel action and went on through the Argonne and later became director of athletics and entertainment for the A. E. F.

The post has unanimously voted to put at the disposal of the Legion's world peace and foreign relations commission "all the special facilities the post might possess by reason of the fact that it is situated at the seat of the League of Nations and all of its charter members are officials of the league."

Diplomatic Kid

"Listen here, young man," snorted the ten-year-old's father. "One more question out of you and you go to bed!"

Followed five minutes of silence.

Then:

"Dad?"

"Young man?"

"Dad, what was it you made the Briarwood course in last time?"

"Oh—eighty-two, and that was a remarkable score for that course, too. If I do say so, because—etc.—etc.—"

"Johnny" Was on a Diet

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

HELEN's mother waited rather anxiously for her daughter's return on the Sunday afternoon. Each week-end Helen, along with many other humane women, went down through the business streets, laden with cat meat and milk, to feed and care for the poor animals left to their own resources in the great deserted streets.

"It should be a punishable offense," said Helen when she first joined the little band of good Samaritans, "for people to let their animals starve while they go off to eat their way through four or five good meals just over Sunday."

Her mother felt much the same way about it and quite approved the unselfish way in which Helen spent her Sundays, but she was always glad to see her safely back. The long, deserted streets with their overpowering silence always rather frightened Mrs. Chatney.

So when she heard the light foot on the stairway and the key turning in the lock she heaved a sigh of relief.

"Oh, mother," exclaimed Helen, drawing something that looked like nothing so much as a mass of silky gray fur from her basket, "look at this darling cat! Just think of anyone having the heart to leave him to starve."

"He certainly is a darling." The mother took over the furry bundle. "Isn't he soft; and how affectionate he is! Did you notice his eyes—aren't they a lovely amber. I do hope he isn't somebody's pet." She looked anxiously at Helen.

"If he is," said Helen, "they have no right to turn him out in the streets. These Persians are not like regular alley cats and don't know a thing about foraging for themselves."

But Mrs. Chatney's surmise was correct because the very next evening the paper had a notice that made Helen so furious that she had a good mind to write and tell the advertiser exactly what she thought of him.

"Will the person who was seen to take a blue Persian kitten from office doorway in lower Broad street kindly return same at earliest convenience."

Even though she was bent on quarreling with a man for cat desertion there was no reason why Helen should not look her pretty self. Accordingly she donned a new costume and the little Chinese blue hat and went down with the blue Persian to the office in Broad street.

Once there she faced a young man who looked anything but the monster she considered him.

"I didn't steal your cat," she said, her wrath boiling over. "I found him in a half-starved condition in the street, and since I am a member of the Dumb Friends league I considered it my duty to rescue him from such cruelty."

A maddening little half-smile played about the lips of the monster.

"Johnny," he told her quietly, "is on a very rigid diet and is only permitted to have grade A milk, and very little of that. He is my best friend, and I would do almost anything sane for him. I don't suppose anyone ever loved an animal as I do him. He comes down to the office with me every day, rather than stay alone in my flat. Sunday I was working in my office, and that is how he happened to be downstairs. Johnny, old boy," he petted the gray cat with very affectionate fingers and pulled his ears and scratched him on the neck where all cats love fondling. "I am accused by this wrathful young lady of being cruel to you. What do you think about it?"

To show that he was not going to take any special side in this affair, Johnny went over and rubbed against the lovely gray shoes and silk hose in which Helen's feet were so daintily dressed.

"As a matter of fact," said the monster, "I have no words to express my feelings regarding the generosity your little band shows in feeding these animals. I sometimes want to thrash a family for leaving a poor beast to its own resources after feeding and caring for it when they needed it for catching mice and discarding it when they go off to enjoy their holidays. I think we might shake hands on that, don't you?" He smiled a most engaging smile and held out a friendly hand.

Johnny purred his soft little purr. Why shouldn't he? He had been a great factor in the lives of two persons, but naturally he did not know that as yet. Later, when he didn't have to be carried downtown on the subway in a basket every morning and have the same trip at night, because there was some one nice in the flat to look after him—perhaps he knew.

Helen hesitated only for a fleeting moment while her eyes looked steadily into those of the monster—monster no longer—but a fine human type of real man who loved animals as much as she herself.

"Would you perhaps bring Johnny up to see mother and dad some evening," she asked him.

"There is no perhaps about it," he told her, and you could hear Johnny's purr all over the office.

ELECT TOM MCGOVERN SHERIFF

A great effort has been made to obtain unbiased reports from every precinct of the whole county, and the result indicates beyond the shadow of a doubt that Tom McGovern will be elected Sheriff of San Mateo county at the coming primary election.

As Lincoln has so well said: "The great heart of the American people beats true."

The people wanted to know about Tom McGovern for sheriff, and all that they have found out is so favorable to him that they are satisfied and have given him their support.

They know his whole life, which has been like an open book. He never kept anything back.

The great hospitality of his father and mother in their former home upon one of the fair hills of Half Moon Bay, where everyone called and was made welcome, no matter what his standing, was the atmosphere in which Tom McGovern began his career.

All who were entertained in that former home, and there are still many of them, just love to give their support to Tom McGovern now as a slight return for what was given to them with open-handed generosity.

Thus, as a boy, Tom McGovern became acquainted with many of the characters of the county, and one of them who came was the sheriff, and from the day that Tom McGovern saw the sheriff in his own home, it was his sole ambition to make himself fit to be the sheriff of his county, some day.

The years went by, Tom McGovern thinking and gathering information all the time, to make himself fit to fill the office of sheriff.

His first opportunity came when, as a young man, he was appointed jailer at a very low salary, which was nothing to him, but the privilege of associating personally with the unfortunate prisoners, that was what he most desired. This experience would help greatly to make him fit to be sheriff.

The prisoners liked him because there never was any vain pretensions about him. He learned their devious ways definitely, becoming an authority upon the habits and inclinations of law-breakers.

His experience and reliability were recognized and his next step upward was to be appointed bailiff, where he learned the procedure of the court in relation to those accused of crime. The arguments for and against the prisoners gave him more information fitting him to be sheriff. All the details were gradually revealed to him.

The next step of promotion was to be made under sheriff, a position he filled with great credit to himself and his county, on account of his knowledge and experience. When Sheriff

Lampkin was killed, it was perfectly natural and entirely right that Tom McGovern should be appointed by the board of supervisors to fill the vacancy and such was done.

Now, he was sheriff of his county. The ambition of his life was achieved, but the honor gave him no airs. He was the same plain Tom McGovern, just as meek, just as anxious to learn more, as when he was jailer.

As sheriff he performed his duties with rare good judgment, winning credit from the great city of San Francisco and from everybody in his own county. No matter where or when he was called, Tom McGovern, as sheriff, was on hand promptly and when he reached the locality of the disturbance he knew what to do. He was accustomed to the ways of law-breakers.

When the time came for nomination to succeed himself there was no question about his nomination. He had met every demand and fulfilled it like a man, even to paying the widow Mrs. Lampkin her support.

The nomination was his without asking and his election was almost as certain, until he was struck down in the midst of the campaign by a reckless speeder in an automobile and stretched in the hospital, very seriously injured. However, his friends rallied to his support and in every part of the county they organized to carry on the campaign that he had begun so successfully.

His friends have done their work so well that now there is no doubt that Tom McGovern will be elected sheriff of this county at the coming primary election.

With the greatest of pleasure, it is announced that Sheriff Tom McGovern is at his home in Redwood City, out of the hospital, and rapidly recovering his health and strength. Very soon his hosts of friends will be calling him "Brick," as they meet him on the street, and congratulating him on his election.

A Y. M. C. A. survey, in which views on petting were gathered from many boys and girls, found the consensus that while neither think it exactly right, most of them do it. It was also recommended that the problem "be worked out by boys and girls together." They seemed to be doing that even before the survey was held.

PLUCKY GIRL'S TRIUMPH

Patriotic Americans experienced a genuine thrill a few days ago, when news of Miss Gertrude Ederle's triumph over the English Channel was flashed around the world. A 19-year-old girl from New York's west side had beaten all previous records in the accomplishment of this stupendous feat, and had proven herself the greatest swimmer of all time.

Miss Ederle swam the Channel in 14 hours, 31 minutes. Other records are those of Webb, 22 hours, 45 minutes; Burgess, 22 hours, 35 minutes; Sullivan, 27 hours, 35 minutes; Tiraboschi, 16 hours, 23 minutes; Toth, 16 hours, 54 minutes. Only these six have succeeded in swimming the Channel, Miss Ederle being the only woman among them, and winning in her second attempt.

Burgess tried the feat unsuccessfully eighteen times before finally accomplishing it in 1911. He was Miss Ederle's trainer this year. Toth succeeded in his twelfth attempt, Sullivan in his third, Tiraboschi in his third, Webb in his second. A comparison of these records will show the marked superiority of Miss Ederle's wonderful performance.

Upon the completion of her gruelling battle with wind and tide, she was given a tremendous ovation, acclaimed by all as the greatest swimmer, man or woman, who ever lived. She said, "I am happy—so happy—now I want to go home."

America is justly proud of Gertrude Ederle.

ADVANCE OF INDUSTRY

Increased efficiency in industry, whereby the output per man is greatly exceeding that of a few years ago, is characterized by the Bureau of Labor Statistics as a new industrial revolution, comparable with that ushered in by the epoch-making inventions of the last century.

It is declared that we are just now experiencing what is perhaps the most remarkable advance in productive efficiency in the history of the present industrial system. In the automobile industry the output per man is three times as great as it was in 1914. This means that 1,000 men can today turn out as many automobiles in a given time as 3,000 men produced in 1914. In the iron and steel industry production per man has increased 50 per cent since 1914, while in many other basic industries the increase in efficiency has been nearly as great.

The same thing is true in practically every line of production, including agriculture. It means that if we were satisfied with the living standards of pre-war days we should be able to get along with considerably less hours of labor.

But we are not satisfied with the old standards. Millions of persons who hardly dreamed of possessing automobiles then have them today. The radio, then unknown, is now found in a large and rapidly increasing number of homes. Electricity is in daily use among a great percentage of the population, and innumerable other devices and commodities that make for comfort, health and entertainment, have come into general use.

Apparently demand keeps pace with production, and generally speaking the labor released from one field of activity readily finds employment in another. Thus the march of civilization goes uninterruptedly on.

SAVE NIAGARA FALLS

Shall the scenic grandeur of Niagara Falls be saved to posterity, or shall that natural wonder of the world be permitted to wear itself away? This question is again receiving the serious attention of American and Canadian authorities, and a conference between representatives of the two governments is planned for the near future.

Since the first map of the Falls was made in 1764, the great cataract has moved about 820 feet upstream, due to wearing away by the immense water which pours over it. This erosion has been growing more serious of late and is now eating away the center of the Canadian or Horseshoe Falls at the rate of seven feet each year.

Engineers who have studied the situation have proposed plans for stopping this destruction. One is to reinforce the edges of the Falls with concrete; another is to build an obstruction above the Falls, so that the water would be diverted toward the sides, instead of being concentrated in the center, where it is now wearing away a V-shaped notch. Secretary Hoover declares that unless this damage shall be checked the Falls will eventually become only a series of rapids.

That such a thing should be permitted to happen is unthinkable. Niagara Falls attract 1,500,000 visitors each year and the annual expenditures of these are estimated at $37,000,000, which illustrates the commercial as well as the aesthetic value of this majestic spectacle.

Niagara Falls should be saved by all means, and the work can not be begun too soon.

CAN A ROOSTER COUNT?

Experiments in psychology are being carried on enthusiastically with many kinds of animal life as subjects. A recent test reported from the University of Chicago is quite interesting.

Kernels of corn were placed in a row on the floor, with every third kernel tacked down, and a rooster was permitted to help himself. Failing to lift a fastened kernel, he would pass on and eat the next. The missing kernels were replaced and next time he made no attempt to devour the stationary kernels. Then the third kernels were loosened, but he still passed them by until his foot struck one and moved it; then he went back and ate them all.

Some who witnessed the experiment believe that it proved the rooster's ability to count; others were skeptical. Possibly he was an unusual bird, or had been influenced by his university environment.

We don't vouch for the story, but if you doubt it try the experiment on your own rooster.

DEATH TOLL REDUCED

Warnings against accidents have been so persistently disregarded by the public that at times it has seemed that they were futile as a means of reducing the appalling toll of dead and injured resulting from sheer carelessness. But a report just made in behalf of the American Museum of Safety gives evidence of real results from the campaign for safe Fourth of July celebrations.

This report shows, first, that during the 150 years of American Independence, more lives have been lost in celebrating that independence than were lost in acquiring it on the battlefields of the Revolutionary War.

It showed that in 1925 more than 100 persons were killed and more than 1,000 were injured in Fourth of July celebrations throughout the country.

Of these, 19 persons were literally blown to pieces. Thirty-seven children were burned to death by fires started by so-called harmless "sparklers;" 79 had been disfigured for life, and 150 had lost the sight of one or both eyes; all in the name of patriotism.

Through bringing these gruesome facts to the attention of the public through newspapers and personal warnings, Fourth of July casualties for 1926 were only about one-half as many as for 1925. This means that except for the unusual activity of safety organizations, supported in their efforts by the press, there would probably be 50 more children in their graves today, with 500 others maimed or blinded, who are now alive and well.

The frightful death toll from accidents, most of them due to stupid disregard of repeated warnings, is still far too large. Indifference, carelessness and foolhardiness are the greatest menaces to life and limb in America today. It is gratifying that some progress is being made in the direction of safety, but it will take great energy and persistence to impress upon the public how frightful are the results of thoughtless folly.

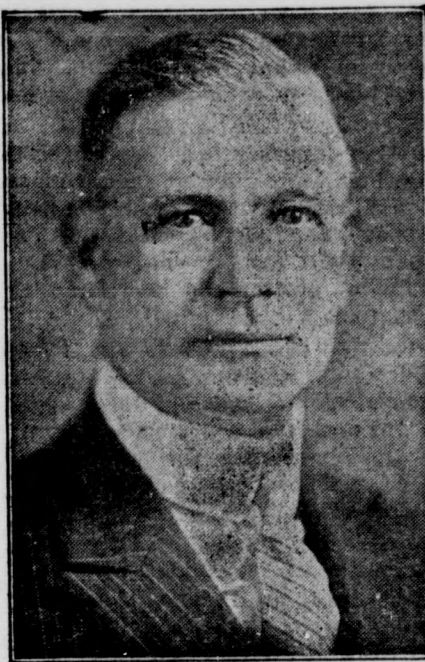

An observant Frenchman describes the modern bathing suit as "something that begins nowhere and ends at once."

A BUSINESS MAN FOR A BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Harry L. Parkman, well-known San Mateo man, is a candidate for the office of assemblyman from the Forty-second district of California, comprising San Mateo county.

Parkman is seeking the Republican nomination at the primary election to be held on August 31, and is conducting his campaign on his reputation, and on the platform of "a business man for a business administration."

Parkman is a native son, having been born in San Jose and educated in the San Jose schools. For several years he held a responsible position on a San Jose daily newspaper, and was at one time editor of the New York Dramatic Mirror. He is also well-known in fraternal circles, being an interested and ardent worker in several organizations. He has always taken an active part in politics, particularly in relation to the progress and development of his community, and at one time served two terms on the school board of Santa Clara county. He was intensely interested in school matters, and was the instigator of the cafeteria system in the schools.

Previous to coming to San Mateo, Parkman resided in Sunnyvale, where he worked actively for the best interests of his municipality.

Parkman is no stranger to local men or to the community. For the past twenty years he has had business dealings with Peninsula merchants, who regard him as a wide-awake, thoroughly progressive business man, whose industry and enterprise entitles him to the success he enjoys. He is now owner of the Empire Supply Company of San Francisco. Being endowed with much business ability, his company has forged ahead and is now most prosperous and flourishing.

"In seeking this important office of assemblyman," says Parkman, "I want the voters to understand that I have the best interests of my district and the state of California at heart, and I can be depended upon to support any project concerning the welfare of the community. I believe I have the sound business training and good judgment necessary to properly qualify for a seat in the State Legislature, and will ever work toward improvement of the Peninsula along lines of material and intellectual municipal growth."

"The Barrier," in which Norman Kerry, Henry B. Walthall and Lionel Barrymore are the principal actors, is scheduled for the State Theatre next Thursday and Friday. This is one of the most popular screen productions of the present time, and you should not miss it.

VALUE OF PUBLICITY

Owing to the keen competition among the many localities which are seeking to secure new industries, the efforts of chambers of commerce and similar agencies have in late years been directed toward advertising the advantages of their respective communities.

In some instances these efforts have been devoted to publicity in behalf of a single town or city, in others a county or group of counties, while in a few cases the promotion of an entire state has been sought.

In addition to campaigns by commercial organizations several railroads and utility companies have done effective work in calling attention to the natural resources and other advantages of territory which they serve.

A notable example of such a campaign is seen in the activities of the Alabama Power Company in behalf of the entire state of Alabama, in which paid advertising in national trade publications and newspapers, industrial motion pictures, and striking exhibits at trade exhibitions in New York, Boston and Chicago have been employed with gratifying success.

It is said that as a result of this campaign more than 25 major industries, with an annual pay-roll of more than $7,500,000, have been located in Alabama within the last eighteen months.

In other states similar efforts have been highly successful, thus demon-

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

John McCormack, the famous Irish tenor, has been sojourning in San Francisco since he returned from the Orient, about a month ago, and report has it that he is arranging to establish a permanent family residence either in the city or its immediate vicinity. This report is not deprived of authenticity by the fact that he recently sent for his only brother, James, and that since the latter's arrival, the pair have divided most of their daylight time between inspecting suburban home sites and playing either golf or tennis, in both of which pastimes the celebrated singer is an expert. His wife and daughter, Gwen, are spending the summer on the McCormack estate, in County Kildare, Ireland, and are expected to join him when he arrives at New York during his coming concert tour, which will be opened the evening of September 8, at the Civic Auditorium, San Francisco, under the management of Frank W. Healy.

The Wilson sub-station, built at a cost of $750,000, to connect the power transmission lines of the Great Western Power company, with those of the San Joaquin Light and Power company at Tuttle, near Merced, has been placed in operation. A transmission line 105 miles long was built to bring the Great Western power from Lake Almanor in Plumas county, from Brighton, near Sacramento, to the Wilson station, where it connects with the San Joaquin Light and Power line, brought from the mountains of Fresno county. Another line brings in power generated at the Exchequer dam of the Merced Irrigation district.

If daughter needs a new pair of silk stockings take down the bucksaw and saw them out of the nearest redwood tree. This may not be so ridiculous as it sounds, in the near future, for the big lumber companies of Humboldt county, have announced they have started investigation of processes of making artificial silk out of the bark of redwoods. If the plan proves successful, California girls may be called upon to take part in introducing the latest novelty in hosiery—silk stockings from the "sequoia gigantea."

Fanned by a brisk wind, fire razed 8,000 acres of grain and pasture land between the Modesto Irrigation district reservoir and Pausell Station on the Sierra Railroad recently. Damage is estimated at $16,000, partly covered by insurance. The blaze started near Pausell, about eight miles above Oakdale, and burned over a strip seven miles long and two miles wide. Cattle on the land escaped being burned to death by being driven from the blazing area by volunteer firefighters. Nearly 200 men battled the stubborn blaze.

Through the generosity of William H. Smyth, inventor and economist of Berkeley, the University of California has come into possession of the Smyth home, an eight acre estate known as "Fernwald," valued at $200,000. In making his gift Smyth stated that he did not approve of modern educational methods because they turned out animate jumbled indexes instead of trained human beings. He requested that his gift be used for research in physical science, which he regards as the most hopeful study.

Through the addition of 200 new films on Nature Study, the University of California, Division of Visual Instruction now has 11,000 moving picture films available for clubs, lodges, churches and schools of the state. The pictures include strictly educational themes, and others for entertainment, by leading cinema stars. A catalogue listing and describing the films may be obtained from Edward Mayer, Division of Visual Instruction, University of California, Berkeley.

That mining is undergoing an unusual revival in Tuolumne county is attested by cold facts from the recorder's office, which relate that during July sixty-two quartz and fifteen placer claims were placed on record. The previous month was also a record-breaker. All indications point to far more claims being worked during the next twelve months than in many years. Much development work of a permanent nature is under way at many properties.

Newcastle fruitgrowers were greatly encouraged by the number of sales of Bartlett pears on Eastern markets for $3 a standard box, and more. There are still many pears rolling and on the trees, and the present price is of vital importance to growers, who had sales during the past two weeks that scarcely paid the cost of production and the freight charges.

The Bennet Investment company at Vista, has planted 100 acres to beans, the same acreage to tomatoes and ten acres each to winter rhubarb and persimmons. Next spring the company plans to set out 100 acres to avocados. The company's holdings include 550 acres at the east end of the irrigation district.

A new wing to house the music department of the Porterville Union high school is under construction, adjoining the gymnasium. The building will be of concrete, brick and stucco construction, 40x80 feet, with hardwood floors and heating plant, and will cost about $5,000.

Placer county's assessed valuation increased $2,577,765 during the past year to a total of $18,255,970. This is shown in a revision of the rolls by County Auditor C. D. McKinley, following sessions of the county board of equalization, at which some reductions were made.

John Kaintoch, Arbuckle furniture man, has started work on a $12,000 furniture store and theater.

Anticipating a registration of 400 students, the Auburn Union Grammar School will open on August 30.

Included in the building program of the University of Southern California for the ensuing year is a new clinical building for the college of dentistry.

Work will begin in a short time on the new gymnasium for the Los Molinos High school. The new building will be of concrete and fireproof throughout, costing over $7,000. It will be near the main plant.

Uncle Sam distributed $3,173,851.27 to Western States in royalties and rentals on mineral rights on public lands during the year ended June 30, the interior department announced. California received $433,475.44.

Stockton fire insurance agents have been notified officially of the re-rating to be accorded Stockton by the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific as a result of a survey of the city recently conducted by the board.

Stockton women who served as army and navy nurses during the world war have organized the third American Legion post to be composed entirely of women in California. The name chosen is Jane Delano Post No. 235.

Another industry has been added to Hollywood, with the announcement that the Security Material company has been capitalized at $500,000. The company will deal in cement, sand, rock, lathe, plaster and lime and similar materials.

A total of 264,318 books and 35,198 periodicals in addition to 3,074 pieces of miscellaneous matter were circulated through the Sacramento County Free library during the year ended June 30, 1926, the report of the county librarian shows.

The assessed valuation of Redlands has increased in the past year about $500,000, bringing the total assessed valuation up to $9,151,180. The total indicates that in another year Redlands will probably have a total assessed valuation of $10,000,000.

An increase of 42 per cent in the earnings in the past five years is noted in the report of Postmaster Chester Matthews. Receipts from sales and rents in 1922 amounted to $15,186.45, while the gross receipts ending June 30, 1926, totaled $21,530.59.

Fire starting when a gasoline stove exploded on the third floor destroyed the main building of the Humboldt county hospital at Eureka causing a loss estimated at more than $150,000. All of the 150 patients, fifteen of whom were bed-ridden, were carried safely from the building, some of the patients and nurses narrowly escaping death.

The first aerial traffic arrest in California made by a "sky speed cop" occurred at Beverly Hills, recently. Aerial officer Paul Whittier, appointed several weeks ago to make a daily inspection of nearby hills to detect brush fires, forced a commercial aviator, to land and handed the flier a traffic tag to appear in court, charged with flying at a height of only 600 feet over the city.

Announcement of a new office building to be erected at once was made in Ventura, co-incidental with the receipt of news from Washington, D. C. that application for a charter for a new national bank at Ventura had been approved by the Comptroller of the Currency. The Union Terminal Bank at Ventura is the official name of the new institution. Its capital is to be $200,000, officials said.

Sentinel Hotel, Yosemite, was opened two months ahead of schedule, to provide dining facilities for Yosemite's guests following the fire which partly destroyed the famed Yosemite Lodge. Company officials, after a survey of the damage, estimated at approximately $25,000 said reconstruction of the entire lodge will be necessary, though the dining room unit was the only part heavily touched by flames.

Following announcements by engineers that the population of Las Vegas has reached 5,150, the Inland Empire Gas Company, controlled by Los Angeles capitalists, has announced immediate construction of a gas manufacturing plant in Las Vegas. A franchise has been granted by the city council. The company promises to supply Las Vegas with gas for heating and cooking purposes by December 1.

A Bureau of Occupations for student at the University of California southern branch, has been established this year under the management of Fred M. Jordan. The work of the bureau will be to aid self-supporting students in finding part-time work, and to place graduates in permanent positions. A similar bureau has been operating successfully at the university in Berkeley for several years.

Reports that doves are being shot out of season in Yuba and Sutter counties are being investigated. Rural mail carriers out of Marysville report hunters are killing the birds in Linda township, south of the Yuba River, each evening. Similar reports come from the Sutter Buttes district. The open season for doves does not start until September 1.

Young married couples who find it hard to make both ends meet have had an example set them by two students of the University of California, who married while still in college and figured expenses so carefully that they lived on $23 a month in addition to their rent. Their budget attracted so much attention that it has been published in a journal of home economics. The secret of their success is in buying a great deal of fresh fruit and vegetables but very little meat. The meat is always of a cheap cut made attractive by care in cooking.

WILL BEGIN WORK ON BIG UNDER PASS

Residents of Peninsula communities and a big delegation of San Franciscans who have been interested in the development of the Bay Shore highway will participate in a "ground breaking" ceremony at South San Francisco tomorrow, when building the great under pass, the portal of the Bay Shore road, will be begun by Barrett and Hilp, contractors.

Chairman Harvey M. Toy of the commission declares the event, which will be participated in by many prominent people, will be one of the biggest road meetings ever held on the Peninsula. The ceremonies will take place at the site of the under pass at 2 p. m., this Saturday afternoon.

The first shovel of earth will be turned, a great steam shovel will give a short and dig its nose into the earth, and excavations for the subway will be started.

Mr. Toy, who has been interested in the Bay Shore highway from its inception, will introduce several speakers who will make short remarks.

FARRELL FOR JUSTICE

Judge Edward Farrell continues to wear his same friendly, pleasant smile, we see. His hosts of friends are sure that his genial disposition and his fair and impartial manner of conducting his office during the past four years will elect him with a handsome majority at the primaries.

In speaking of himself, Judge Farrell says: "I have lived in this township for thirty years and have raised my family of eight children here. When the opportunity came to me to serve the people in the capacity of justice of the peace, I firmly resolved to make my court a place where everyone could feel he would get a fair and impartial deal. That is the policy I have staunchly adhered to—namely 'No friends or enemies in court. A fair deal for all.'"

"All fair-minded people, I believe, want the office to be conducted on this principle, and I assure my supporters that I will continue to adhere to it if re-elected."

"My past four years' experience has, I feel, rendered me capable of even more efficient service if returned to the office I now hold."

MRS. OWENS TALKS TO P. T. A. AT FIRST MEETING MONDAY

"An organization for children's welfare, created to bring a feeling of friendship between the teachers and the mothers," was the way Mrs. Owens, president of the San Mateo Federation, characterized the P. T. A. at the meeting Monday night.

From Mrs. Owens' report, the membership of the organization has increased from 964,000 to 1,000,000 since the last national gathering. At the recent state convention, which was held at San Bernardino, there were 1,763 delegates present. The next national convention will be held in Oakland, and everyone who is interested is invited to attend this meeting.

Immediately after the meeting Mrs. Friend served refreshments.

Mrs. Easton will speak at the next meeting of the Federation at Belmont in September.

Through the Bank of Italy, the Federation has a school saving plan which will enable the students to save money for high school.

The roll of this association was increased with eight new members at the meeting Monday. Jefferson's P. T. A. will give a party at the State Theatre in October to raise money for the term's activities. They are also planning to give the teachers a reception at the next regular meeting. This year the organization will again assist at the class parties.

A LETTER OF APPRECIATION

Redwood City,
Aug. 21, 1926.

Dear Editor:

On my return to Redwood City this week, I was extremely sorry to hear of the unfortunate accident of Sheriff T. C. McGovern.

I am sincerely glad of the rapid improvement in his condition and hope he will soon be able to resume his duties as sheriff.

At this time I should like to express my appreciation to Mr. McGovern for the favors extended during the past three years, and to wish him success in the coming election and the four years to follow.

Sincerely,
HATTIE LAMPKIN,
Widow of former Sheriff Lampkin.

When a prisoner told a New York magistrate that he was not a burglar, but "the champion long distance Charleston dancer of the world," the wise judge held him without bail.

"Don't you ever use a blotter?"
"No. The ink is always dry before I find it."

RE-ELECT S. A. LANDINI

Our newspapers are full of details of the most horrible and many kinds of crimes. We stop and wonder why it is possible that in an age of forced education these crimes exist. No matter what the reason, we need officers of the law to enforce the law, and who have the confidence and the respect of the parents and of the growing boys and girls, who look for advice from the man who enforces law and order and is always at the call of one in trouble.

HALF MOON BAY VOTES FIRE PROTECTION TAX

At a special election held at Half Moon Bay on Wednesday, more than $7,000 was voted for equipment of the fire department in the form of a special tax on property of the fire district. The issue carried by a vote of 175 to 29, a total of 204 votes being cast in the district, which has a registration of 280.

The special tax will provide $7,250, which is to be devoted to purchase of a pumping engine and other equipment for fire protection throughout the district, which includes the city of Half Moon Bay.

CHILD KILLED BY AUTO

John Delaney, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Delaney of Menlo Park, was fatally injured when an automobile said to have been driven by Mrs. Mable Nitsche, a neighbor of the Delaneys, backed out of a driveway and ran over the child. The boy died an hour later. Mrs. Nitsche denies all knowledge of the accident.

The safest place in the world for pedestrians is Mesopotamia, where there are only four automobiles in the whole country.

FOR TREASURER

J.J. HAHIR

ELECT—

J. C.

DICKEY

COUNTY TREASURER

His integrity and ability has been proven.

VOTE FOR HIM

To the Voters of the Eighth Congressional District:

—If there was a one-way road in your neighborhood leading down a cliff, you'd soon call up those responsible to know the reason why, wouldn't you?

—The Volstead Act has been a "one-way" law. For seven years we've been riding down the road, and we're pretty close to the edge of the cliff right now.

—The farce of its so-called "enforcement" has become so evident, the mockery it has made of all law, has caused such loss of respect for authority by many, the hypocrisy and corruption among officials has become so widespread, that if we don't widen the road and turn, we're headed for the cliffs.

—Other laws have been amended to fit experience. Our traffic laws are amended constantly to meet new problems. There is nothing sinister about changing a law. There is nothing wrong in trying to make a law fit conditions while curbing such evils as the dry law was designed to meet.

—There is nothing pleasant about a one-way road. If a short-sighted and narrow man named Andrew Volstead, built a narrow and dangerous road, and that road won't stand up under conditions as they exist, it's about time, after seven years, to widen it and turn it away from the cliff.

PLANS FOR HOLDING COUNTY FAIR HAVE BEEN ABANDONED

Plans for holding a county fair in San Mateo county at a date in the near future were definitely abandoned late Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of Peninsula civic leaders held in the office of the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce.

"Those who were considering the proposition feel that it is too comprehensive to be undertaken at the present time," said Miss Elizabeth Hole, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, "and it was decided to drop the plans for the present time."

"The cost would have been very great, and although there would have been great advertising value attached to the proposition, the directors of the various chambers interested were of the opinion that other forms of advertising would be more profitable."

JUSTICE COURT METHODS OF JUDGE ELLIS C. JOHNSON

The Daly City Justice Court is not a function which draws large numbers of hearers, but in the judgment of one who regularly attends its sessions it is a fine educational medium that our citizens would do well to visit from time to time.

Sundry cases and various types are to be found there, and the methods of Judge Ellis C. Johnson in dealing with them commend themselves at once by their apt and timely wisdom.

Many offenders leave the court thinking far more earnestly of the excellent advice offered them by the Judge than of the small fine the law compelled him to inflict.

Judge Johnson is a broad-minded and approachable philosopher who knows human nature very thoroughly, and believes firmly that in most men there will be a response to kindly warning and temperate counsel. The Judge draws upon his wide experience for apt illustrations and sage aphorisms, and proclaims a gospel of sane and safe living, and a philosophy of law-respecting conduct which can not fail to impress a majority of those who appear in judgment before him.

Many of his casual expressions are worthy to be printed and preserved. He is not dogmatic or dictatorial, but discharges the duties of his difficult office with firmness and kindness, with justice and consideration, and throughout gives evidence of a comprehensive knowledge of the law he administers so fearlessly, so impartially and reasonably.

Our city is fortunate indeed in the possession of a justice of the peace of Judge Ellis C. Johnson's type and temperament.

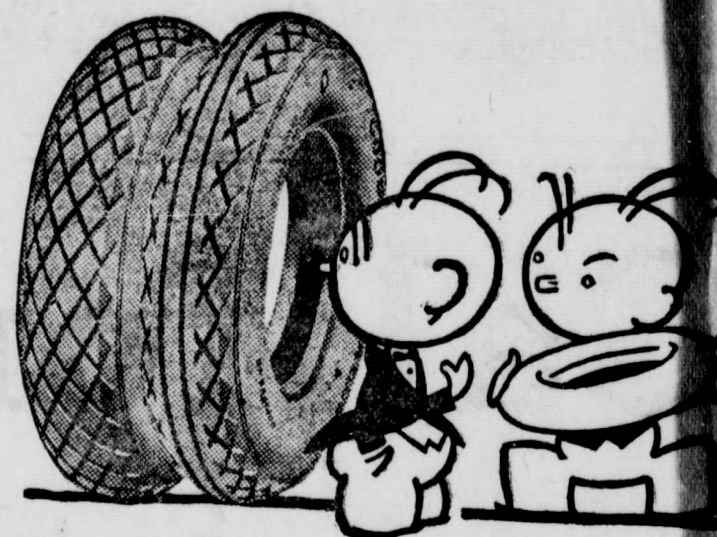

Judge Johnson has served this county faithfully as a justice of the peace for sixteen years. We believe he should be re-elected.

Cast your vote for Judge Ellis C. Johnson and elect him at the primary.

Autoists who bump into animals on highways of the Panama Canal Zone do so at their peril, according to a ruling of the district court, which dismissed the suit of one Degnan, for injuries received when he ran down a cow on a dark night. The court declared that there was no law "requiring animals on the highways to be equipped with bells, tail lights or other warning devices."

Spectators at a recent baseball game between the Peoria and Springfield teams of the Three-I League evidently got their money's worth. They witnessed 10 home runs, 4 three-base hits, 7 doubles, and saw a total of 56 men safely cross home plate; yet there were only 8 errors. Score: Springfield, 33; Peoria, 23—said to be a record for organized league baseball in the entire history of the game.

Steve Smolinski of Baltimore would be a formidable competitor for the title of champion dum-bell. After serving two years for an attempted robbery he went back to finish the job. Entering the same window, his presence was made known by the same burglar alarm that had caused his former arrest, and he is back in jail.

Elect Jim McGrath County Auditor

James J. "Jim" McGrath, well known San Mateo man, is making a whirlwind campaign for election to the office of County Auditor, and from all accounts will poll a tremendous vote at the primary election to be held on Tuesday, August 31. McGrath entered the race several weeks ago and has since been canvassing the entire county, meeting his old friends and making new acquaintances.

"Jim" McGrath, as he is familiarly known, has resided in San Mateo practically all of his life. He attended the public schools of San Mateo and later was a student at the University of Santa Clara. Several years ago he entered the San Mateo post office and worked himself up to a responsible position, resigning this several weeks ago to become a candidate for the office of auditor of San Mateo county.

"I have received splendid encouragement in all sections of San Mateo county," said McGrath today, "and I believe that I will win by a splendid majority at the primary election on August 31. If elected I will conduct the important office of auditor in an efficient manner and I will strive at all times to be of the utmost service to my constituents, the people of San Mateo county."
